TRIED 4 TIMES

With the Murder of Husband

GOES ON TRIAL TODAY

Mrs. Gallop on Witness Stand
Three Times in Own
Defense

By International News Service

QUEBEC, Nov. 21.—For the fourth time in three years, an American girl—a girl once known as "the butterfly" of the dance halls of Northern Maine—goes on trial today charged with having murdered her husband by poisoning.

She is Mrs. Abraham Gallop, of Kingsclear, N. B., formerly Miss Emily Sprague, of Charlotte, Washington County, Maine.

The Crown alleges that Mrs. Gallop was in love with another man and that she got rid of her husband by feeding him strychnine, traces of which were found in his stomach when his body was exhumed from St. Peter's Episcopal Church cemetery at Springhill, N. B.

Three times Mrs. Gallop has taken the witness stand in her own behalf, three times she has denied that she took the life of the man she married. Three times she told a judge that she purchased strychnine for Gallop to take on a hunting trip and that if he took any of the poison it was done accidentally. And she was prepared today to again take the stand.

Emily Sprague was a country girl of Northern Maine, born and reared in Washington County. She became a wonderful dancer and was the belle of many a ball in her home country. So light was she in swaying with the music that she came to be called the "Maine butterfly."

The girl was wooed and won by Abraham Gallop, a prosperous building contractor of New Brunswick. They lived happily.

At previous trials witnesses have testified that Mrs. Gallop and William Simpson, a resident of Sunny Brae, Moncton, N. B., became involved in "an affair" but both the accused woman and Simpson, who has been her star witness at the three previous murder trials, have denied this.

Mr. Gallop died on August 6th, 1925, at Aylmerville, N. B. He was buried at Springhill.

Ugly rumors regarding his death were current after the funeral. An investigation was started by the attorney general's department here and exhumation followed. Subsequently, Mrs. Gallop was arrested at her home in Sunny Brae.

At the first trial, which was held at Aylmerville, Quebec, in October, 1925, she was convicted. An appeal was taken, however, and the court of appeals for the Crown decided that Justice Gibson, the trial justice, had illegally advised the jury regarding the verdict.

The most damaging evidence against the defendant was the testimony of her former friend and confidant, Miss Irene Renard. The latter testified at the request of Mrs. Gallop she had induced Arthur Vian, a friend, to swear that Gallop was driving with him on the day he died and they had been drinking heavily. Mrs. Gallop, on the witness stand, repeatedly denied the charge that there was collusion between her and her confidant.

PLAN TO KEEP AUTO
APPLICATIONS OUTFederal Government Has Joined With State Highway
Department

SHOULD APPLY AT ONCE

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.)—The Federal government has joined with the State Highway department in the campaign to keep automobile license tags and applications out of the holiday season mail.

A recent issue of the "Postal Bulletin" put out by the postoffice department in Washington, urged postmasters to join with their state highway departments to urge early action on license applications.

"The State highway department of Pennsylvania advises that approximately 1,000,000 tags out of a total of 1,750,000 will be issued before Jan. 1, 1928," the Bulletin says.

"All postmasters in Pennsylvania should . . . in their 'Mail early campaign' call attention to the advisability of all automobile owners filing their applications at once. This will not only help the owners of cars but relieve the mails at a time when they are taxed to capacity."

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.)—The Department of Highways today announced revocation of forty-three automobiles drivers' licenses and that six additional names had been placed on the prohibitory list.

Intoxication led all other causes for revocation, nineteen instances being recorded. Eight licenses were revoked for reckless driving and five for transporting liquor.

Revocations for intoxication included Late Rice, Frank Bissert, Gay Corby and A. J. Hartman, all of Washington, Lewis T. Ford, Wilkes-Barre; Leo D. Murray, Uniontown, and Archie Geddis, Lebanon.

The license of Alfonse Daniszewski, Erie, was revoked for failure to stop after an accident.

Henry Yenser, Allentown, and Clarence E. Darker, Kulpmount, were included in those who lost licenses for reckless driving.

Revocations for transporting liquor included J. M. Daugherty, Beaver Falls, and H. A. Kyle, Uniontown.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.)—Industrial accidents in the State during October caused 165 deaths and injuries to 13,564 workers, the bureau of statistics of the State Department of Labor and Industry today announced.

Despite a general decrease as compared with the corresponding month of last year, the October figures indicate an unusually high rate of fatalities for the anthracite mines while those in the bituminous were lower than at any time since the strike began.

Fifty-two fatal accidents were reported from anthracite collieries during the month, an increase of 19 over September.

Although only twenty-three fatal accidents were reported from the bituminous fields, there was no marked decrease in the number of non fatal accidents. The bureau for that reason does not believe that non-operation of some mines is responsible for a decrease in the fatal accidents.

Only seven fatal accidents were reported from the transportation lines, a reduction of 13 over September.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.)—Discovery of a blood-stained pistol in the rear of an auto believed stolen today started police on a search of deserted spots of the city for a possible victim of a gang feud or robbery. HELPS IN DISASTER

By Mrs. Grace S. Williams
(Chairman of Red Cross Drive)

Did you notice in reports in the newspapers this week that the Red Cross immediately went to the relief of the sufferers in the Pittsburgh disaster?

Did you stop to think that it was your dollar, and your next door neighbor's dollar, and the dollar of your neighbor across the street that made it possible for the Red Cross to do this?

We are most fortunate that we have such an active group of women in Bristol willing to give of their energy, time and money to pass along your contributions in this big work. They sometimes get discouraged because people do not realize how much that dollar is needed, the one they might give but withhold because of some old prejudice. They are encouraged again as soon as they are greeted by a ready giver.

The work of the Roll Call has been under way a little over a week now, and the best returns have been turned in by the Township workers under Miss Margaret R. Grundy, as captain. They have 100 members up to date.

Miss Frances Landreth reports 28 members from the Second Ward and Miss Katherine Keating reports 11 from the Third Ward. Mrs. William J. Buckman reports 21 from the Fifth Ward. Mrs. Edward Renk reports 88 from the Sixth Ward and Mrs. Thomas J. Hawkes reports 61 from Edgely. Mrs. George Wright reports 22 from Pottstown. Mrs. W. W. Wink has reported 32 from Embley.

Workers still will be going their rounds this week, but if they should miss you, they will be most happy to have you take your dollar to them. Remember the Red Cross can only do as much work as is represented by the money we give them. Therefore join.

JEWELRY VALUED
AT $1400 STOLEN

TOOK SOME JEWELRY

Insurance on Window Expired
Just Month Ago, Says
Owner

PERKASIE, Nov. 21.—Cutting a square out of a large plate glass window, yesterday, at the jewelry store of J. W. Schanely, Fifth and Walnut streets, this borough, thieves stole jewelry valued at $1400 and made their escape while the proprietor of the store living above, heard them and saw them drive away.

The robbery was committed under the rays of a bright light in the street nearby. It was about 3 in the morning when the proprietor of the store heard a knocking on his plate glass window. He heard the piece of glass that had been cut drop and then he called for his 19-year-old son, Clarence, who was asleep on the third floor. His cries were heard by the robbers, who simply scooped up the jewelry displayed on a velvet window base, and dashed for their motor car, while Schanely and his son looked on.

The car in which the robbers escaped was parked near the store, and it is believed that three men were in the car when it left.

The proprietor of the store said this morning that last night was the first time in many years he left his jewelry display in the window. He said that he forgot to put it away. The insurance on the window also expired about a month ago, the store proprietor said this morning.

The thieves took five diamond rings, fourteen watches, several small clocks, and a small case of wedding rings.

It is believed that the same thieves broke a window and entered the Lehigh Valley gasoline and oil stations at the corner of Walnut street and Sellersville Road during the night and stole about $10 in change and cigarettes and cigars valued at $10.

The thefts here follow a long line of thefts in the Quakertown section during the past two weeks. In the absence of State Police in Bucks county, investigations are being carried on by local police who in most cases are handicapped because of lack of transportation and jurisdiction.

Hulmeville

Miss Lillian Goslin, of Main street, visited her mother, Mrs. Emma Vansant, at the home of Mrs. Glenn West, Bristol, on Sunday. Mrs. Vansant, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is reported as much improved.

This evening there will be a special meeting of Borough Council.

Miss Ella L. Smith, of Trenton, N. J., passed the week-end here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haefner.

The November meeting of the official board of the Methodist Church will take place tonight at the residence of Edward Davis.

The first of a series of parties to be given by the Sunday School Class of the Methodist Church was held on Saturday evening at the home of Miss Elma E. Haefner. Each member of the class is privileged to invite a guest to these affairs, and others will be held throughout the winter months.

Travel Club Studies
Work of Foundations

An exceptionally interesting meeting of the Bristol Travel Club was held at the home of Mrs. T. Megaragee, under the direction of Mrs. Frank Lehman, on Friday.

The work of Foundations in returning accumulated riches to society was the theme of the afternoon, and the Carnegie, Rockefeller and Russell Sage Foundations were specifically studied.

Many thrilling cases of awards of Carnegie hero medals were read by Mrs. Henry Hartmann.

Others assisting in the program were Mrs. Emil Metzger, Mrs. Joseph B. Smith, Mrs. David O. Taylor, Mrs. H. Doyle Webb and Mrs. Russell Ellis.

At the conclusion of the afternoon of hearing all of these good works, the club agreed with the President's statement in his recent speech before the Union League that "The heart of the country is sound."

BRISTOL A. A. WALLOPS
FRANK'D STEEL JACKETSVisitors Lose to Home Team
By the Score of 20 to 0

HUTTON IS THE STAR

Flashing an attack that surprised everyone Bristol A. A. trounced the Frankford Steel Jackets by the score of 20 to 0 in one of the most interesting games witnessed on Sullivan's Field in many a day.

Bristol started the game minus eight of their regular players and two defeats staring them in the face, one at the hands of Doylestown last Sunday, when the county seaters won 28 to 6. The other defeat at the hands of the Frankford Steel Jackets, who played here earlier in the season under the name of "Tacony Bulldogs," by the score of 12-0, a big handicap for any team to start under.

But the fighting spirit of "Al" Bauer and his small band of determined players swept the visitors completely off their feet, in every department of the game. "Ed" Hutton, a short, stocky colored boy, was the outstanding star in Bristol's line-up. This swirling, dashing streak scored two touchdowns in a most spectacular manner.

The third touchdown came in rather a peculiar fashion. A Bristol back threw a pass to Stratton, who played end for the home team. Stratton caught the ball but a Frankford back knocked the pigskin out of his hands. "Al" Lippincott jumped up in the air and grabbed the elusive ball and crashed over the goal line for a touchdown. Frank Cook kicked two of the three points after touchdown. End runs played an important part in Bristol's victory. Hutton, Barton and Cook making long runs for big gains. While Jay Fine was always good when yardage was needed through the line.

Barton and Lippincott, a pair of lads that have not seen much action this year, played wonderful football. "Lippie" made some sensational tackles, smearing the visiting backs for losses many times. Barton showed a nice head when called to carry the ball skirting end and going through the line for good yardage. "Al" Bauer was a tower of strength backed up with Bill Logan and Alex Smith in the guard positions. "Keecker" Vandegrift and Joe Grezokkie were at their best at tackle and when relieved by Fegley and Johnson the line held just as well.

"Press" Stratton, the pride of Maple Beach, and "Chick" Harper played sterling football at end. They hurried the backs when the visitors attempted forward passes and threw them for losses a number of times.

"Jay" Fine and Frank Cook were great crashing and tearing through the visitors at will. Goldberg, who relieved Cook and Hawkins, who substituted for Harper, played nice football. Last but not least, "Ed" Hutton, the fastest back seen on Sullivan field in many moons, had the visiting team crazy. This modest lad twisted and sidestepped the whole team when he scored two of the home team's touchdowns.

YARDLEY MAN IS UNDER ARREST
AS A SUSPECTWilliam Zimmerman Is Taken Into Custody by The Police

LODGED IN COUNTY JAIL

Previous Arrest and Killing of Fugitive Recalled By Police Activity

Another suspect is under arrest in the "Philadelphia Strangler" assault case at Yardley. This time the police worked at home, the suspect arrested being William Zimmerman, 32 years of age, and resident of Yardley. Zimmerman is now in the Bucks County jail at Doylestown, in default of $2,500.

He will face trial on the charge of criminally attacking Miss Helen Mertz, an 18-year-old Yardley girl, the night of October 1 last. In previous reports of this case, the victim's name was given as Merritt.

According to the police, Zimmerman, an employee of the Cold Spring Bleachery, at Yardley, has been under surveillance for some time. Yesterday, Officer Augustine, of the Langhorne Patrol, went to Yardley and placed him under arrest. Zimmerman was then arraigned before Squire Bilger, at South Langhorne. His commitment to jail followed.

Miss Mertz is seriously ill at her home as a result of the attack. She is under the care of a physician and a night and day nurse, so serious is her condition. She, too, is a bleachery employee.

Officials of the bleachery have offered a $500 reward for the capture of the guilty man. The residents of Yardley have added $300 to that amount.

Another man was arrested some weeks ago, but evidence showed he was not guilty, and he was released. Still another man, thought at first to have been the girl's assailant, was shot to death by a State trooper in Netcong. He was trying to escape at the time.

Miss Mertz, who resides on the lonely Sandy Run Road, Yardley, was attacked on a lonely section of the State Highway, near her home, by a stranger, who shouted that he was the "Philadelphia Strangler."

During the struggle the girl's clothing was torn almost off. According to Miss Mertz, she was thrown over a fence, bordering the road, while her assailant fled. When she recovered she made her way to her home.

Corporal Welsh and Patrolman Augustine, Deputy Sheriff Albert Cooper, of Morrisville, and Officer Joseph Burns were notified and an immediate search for the attacker began. A posse was formed and the territory in the vicinity was searched. A man's glove was discovered, which later led to the belief that the man shot down at Netcong was the suspect.

Later Henry R. Blessing, of Philadelphia, was taken into custody after he had written a letter to Miss Mertz in which he proposed marriage. Miss Mertz, however, failed to identify Blessing as her assailant, and he was released.

Zimmerman, who is divorced, has been living in Yardley, with two children. His former wife lives elsewhere in Pennsylvania with two other children.

Tax Reduction Bill
Ready Within Week

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.)—The new tax reduction bill will be completed within a week, it was indicated today as the House Ways and Means Committee began consideration of rates in a secret session.

The amount of the reduction is expected to furnish the chief battleground for clashes between Republican and Democratic members of the committee.

With Republican members already on record as favoring reduction anywhere from the treasury's limitation of $225,000,000 to $300,000,000, the Democrats are standing solidly behind a demand that the reduction be not less than $320,000,000.

This controversy is believed to hold the fate of several groups of taxpayers. Leaders of both factions are pledged to a substantial reduction of the corporation tax and there is a strong demand to abolish the automobile purchase and "nuisance" taxes in addition.

Should the total reduction reach $300,000,000, it is expected that the last of the war-time taxes will go, except the inheritance tax. Should administration leaders succeed in holding the tax cut to the lower figure suggested, the automobile purchase tax may be retained at a reduced figure.

AN AID TO TRAVELERS

The extent to which travelers depend on the small sign-posts at cross-roads and intersections all over the 48 states is surprising, and at the same time worthy of consideration.

Not until one commences a trip via automobile in a section unknown to the individual, is the value of the sign-post realized. A good sense of direction is possessed by few people, and since all roads look alike to the stranger, except that one is perhaps more attractive than the other, the small boards with the direction of the nearby towns indicated by arrows or hands, has become a necessity in this day.

A little more care and thought should be given to marking of such, however, especially where giving of directions is a difficult matter.

From the borough limit of one particular Bucks county town there is a direct route to another village five miles away, but from that said point the hand points in the opposite direction to the latter mentioned village. It is true that one might reach the smaller village from the larger town by following the directions, but it would be most difficult for a stranger, the route is much longer, and the road-bed not so good. Three turns at right angles would be necessary should the tourist follow the arrow; while if the arrow pointed in the opposite direction the village could be reached by making only one right-angle turn, over a much shorter route.

The tourist should be given every consideration, for it is through him that the towns and sections of country are advertised. Those who motor up and down the length and breadth of the land are ever ready to tell of the merits and demerits of the states and counties.

Bucks County has its dangerous points along the thoroughfares well marked, and has endeavored to eliminate any possibility of danger to motorists. But there is still room for improvement as regards marking of towns and directions.

FOG AIRPLANES' WATERLOO?

Developments and events in aeronautics have occasioned in this country in recent months more than ordinary interest in the future of air transportation. The subject is on the tongues of the multitudes and is being linked with some of the nation's largest industrial organizations. It is obvious that the public has been convinced that passenger and freight air lines will come before another decade expires.

Europe now has her regular air lines while in this country California and Florida have passenger air lines, the Ford interests are operating a fleet of freight planes and the United States government has established an extensive air mail system. But formidable obstacles still stand in the way of regular passenger service by air in the United States.

It is not that the passenger-carrying plane is not as highly developed in the United States as it is in Europe nor is it that capital and initiative is lacking here. But for atmospheric and geographical handicaps passenger air service would be already established here.

Unlike those sections of Europe over which one may travel by plane, many sections of the United States are made unsafe for air travel by their ruggedness, isolation and unfavorable atmospheric conditions. To the aviator these are serious matters.

Echoes of the Past

Items of Interest as Gleaned from old files of Bucks County Newspapers

In the Intelligencer dated November 7, 1877, the following items appeared:

Middle Bucks county was in the path of a cyclone which left much damaged property in its path. The sky became very dark before the wind began to blow. Trees were uprooted and twisted from their trunks. Fences and buildings were blown down and fodder ricks were scattered over the fields. A straw shed on the premises of Prosper S. Hewes, Doylestown township, and a wagon house belonging to Mrs. Buckman near the exhibition grounds were demolished. A part of the wall of the burned barn of John Clemens, Doylestown, was blown across the road and fifty panels of fence on the farm of James M. Cadwallader, Buckingham, were blown down.

The appearance of the fine, old house of Jesse Leedom, Newtown, was greatly improved by the erection of a new wire fence of 100 feet on the Court street front and 74 feet along the front of Sullivan street. This house was erected by Bernard Taylor, near the court house, before the Revolution and it was one of the best built houses in Newtown at that time.

Henry S. Booz and William M. Stackhouse, Bristol township, left for Cumberland, West Virginia, where it was their intention of joining some friends to spend ten days in the mountains in quest of deer and wild turkeys.

The cigar factory of Charles Gaskill, Bristol, was entered and robbed of cigars ready stamped for shipment. Mr. Gaskill said the loss amounted to about $46. No clue was found to the thieves.

William P. Holcomb, Newtown, was host to seven members of the class of 1878 of Swarthmore College. They came as far as Langhorne by rail and then hiked the remaining distance to the Holcomb residence. They stopped in Newtown long enough to have the group photographed.

Lower Makefield township, according to the files of this fifty-year-old paper, claimed to be the banner township for couples having been married fifty years. One resident of that township said he knew of seven couples who had been married half a century. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Yardley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hough, Mr. and Mrs. Hezekiah Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Keller and Mr. and Mrs. John Cook. This resident said that ten years before this time he could have named ten couples that had been married fifty years.

John Johnson and family, Hulmeville, who spent some time in Iowa, returned to their home greatly pleased with their trip. Mr. Johnson said the corn husking in that state was somewhat retarded because of the heavy rains. Some of the corn fields, it was said, were covered with water and mud.

In the Newtown Enterprise dated November 12, 1892, the following appeared:

John Morrissey, Newtown, was quite badly hurt about the head and shoulders when a bucket fell about 25 feet while he was digging a well for William R. Richardson, Northampton. Mr. Morrissey was at the bottom of the well which was about fifty feet deep when the bucket and the tools were being lifted out of the well. When part way up the well the bucket in some way became loose, and it fell, striking Mr. Morrissey on the head and shoulders.

Major Samuel Comfort, who had returned from a trip to Idaho and Oregon, was in Newtown and making preparations to go with his wife and another man and his wife to the Straits Settlements and the Sunda Islands.

SYNOPSIS

In old France, Fabien, a youth as handsome as good, intends to train for the priesthood. But in Amiens he meets Manon Lescaut, a beautiful orphan, being taken to a convent by her only relative, a brother, who doesn't want to be bothered with her. The brother, seeing Raviro, a rich connoisseur of women, feigning his eyes upon her, suddenly realizes Manon's worldly value, and buries her for gold to Raviro, who plans to take her to Paris. But Fabien, forgetting his plan to be a priest, steals Raviro's coach and carries Manon happily off.

The coach travelled on through the morning sunshine toward Paris.

At twilight, that same night, Manon and Fabien found themselves on the streets of Paris. They had not been stopped en route and the fear of being caught had vanished with their growing absorption in each other.

The more Fabien saw of Manon the more perfect he thought her. Her beauty, her heart, her mind and her very gentleness took such a binding and agreeable hold on him that he predicted perfect future happiness in its enduring influence.

Carrying their meager belongings they mingled with the crowds. Walking along, hand in hand, interested in each other more than in usual with pedestrians, they formed a sharp contrast to the strutting dandies and gay students paying casual court to pretty grisettes, their companions of the moment.

If Fabien had not been so absorbed in Manon he would have noticed and resented the admiring and covetous glances showered upon her by the dashing Guards officers. These men of the world had not seen a woman as refreshingly lovely as Manon for many a day. To them, her natural charm was far more attractive than the artificial beauty of the aristocratic white wigged occupants of the chairs that passed along the street.

But Manon saw one of these gorgeous creatures and immediately felt pale and insignificant by comparison.

"Oh, Fabien, the poor old man!"

Strangely enough, a woman is never satisfied with unadorned beauty. Perhaps it is the pleasure she derives from adding brighter color, new lines and a different expression to her countenance. She feels that she is making a more interesting creation of herself. Her mood invariably brightens with the application of rouge.

"Fabien, look at that lady! I didn't know there were such pretty things as she has on!"

Manon's awakened love for adornment made her wide-eyed. Just then the throngs scattered to the side of the road as mounted guards cantered ahead of the King's great golden coach and cleared the way. In the general excitement Manon and Fabien were the only ones who did not realize that King Louis XV was passing by. In fact their absorption in each other and total ignorance of what was taking place almost caused an accident. The outriders were forced to rein in their horses to keep from trampling down the young couple that went merrily on as though everything had been stopped for their special benefit instead of the King's.

His Majesty was surprised at being tolled to such an abrupt halt. It was most unusual. Something extraordinary must have caused the stop.

King Louis was not the type of royalty to sit back waiting to be informed of issues at hand. If he wanted to do a thing—he went ahead. If he wanted to find out anything he investigated the matter personally.

That is why the people on the street had such a splendid opportunity to see their king; for he raised the silken coach shade and

"Well, I just wanted to tell you that when a lady comes to whup I am fishing at and throws my can of bait into deep water I'll throw her in after it, and don't you forget it."

MR. WARREN WRIGHT

President of

CALUMET BAKING POWDER COMPANY

SAYS:

"Newspaper Advertising Proves Most Productive In Promoting Sales"

"We attribute our gigantic success," says Mr. Warren Wright, president of the Calumet Baking Powder Co., of Chicago, "to the fact that Calumet Baking Powder Co. procures its distribution and sales through tested methods. We employ newspaper advertising almost exclusively and utilize perhaps as much space as any food manufacturer in America.

"Advertising in local newspapers produces direct trade development for local dealers. That fact has been conclusively demonstrated by the tremendous and consistent growth in Calumet sales.

"When a housewife reads an advertisement in her home town paper, she knows that the advertised article can be purchased from local merchants. For that reason, there is an immediate and most favorable reaction in the way of buying response. She knows, too, that the article possesses merit or the local publisher would not accept the advertising. Her purchases are protected.

"Through newspaper advertising, the manufacturer not only displays sound judgment in the selection of effective advertising mediums, but also evinces a sincere desire to be of the utmost service to the dealer in creating wide distribution and active turnovers.

"Then, too, there is another side to the matter that should be given serious consideration by both the dealer and the consumer: the manufacturer who spends his money for newspaper space is contributing to the welfare of the town or city in which his advertising appears, by putting cash right into home-town pockets.

"So, all in all, we consider, and have proven beyond all doubt, that newspaper advertising represents the very best kind of good business. It reaches local readers; builds trade for local dealers, and puts many dollars from a distance into local circulation. It is worthy of the hearty support of consumer and dealer because it reacts to their personal benefit."
